

U.S. Department of the Interior

Department Ethics Office

Proudly Announces the third in a Series of Ethics Training Sessions Via Satellite Broadcast for the Year 2000

Topics discussed: Travel and the Use of Government Equipment.

Who should attend?: Ethics trainers, managers and employees

Date of broadcast: May 25, 2000

Time of broadcast: 1:30 pm to 3:30 pm eastern time

The upcoming two-hour satellite broadcast will provide a wealth of information on the application of the laws and regulations that govern official travel of Federal employees. It will also cover the restrictions that govern the use of Government equipment. Attending this broadcast will also satisfy the annual ethics training requirement for all Executive Branch employees.

The instructors for this broadcast are: Arthur Bennett (U.S. Department of the Interior) and Lenny Loewentritt, General Services Administration. During the broadcast, the instructors will take questions from viewers throughout the country.
